The speaker will be Pat Miller, founder and president of Family Planning Alternative in San Jose. Discussion will include birth control and problem pregnancy counseling. The meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 10, 7:30 p.m. at the Steinbeck Library, 110 West San Luis Street, Salinas. THE CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION opened bids on the following projects: MONTEREY COUNTY: Traffic safety improvement, scheduled for a mile of Route 101. Channelization will be modified along the fourlane expressway at a location about three miles north of Salinas, and highway lighting will be modified. Work limits extend from just south of Russell Espinosa Road to Martines Road. Accerlation lanes will be constructed for southbound travel entering the expressway from Espinosa Road, and for northbound travel entering from Russell Road. The existing left-turn lane on Route 101 for traffic wishing to turn onto Martines Road will be lengthened. Channelization of White Road will also be improved. Two bids received. Apparent low bidder: Granite Construction Company, Watsonville $54,597.50.

AN EXCELLENT SOURCE for "unique" Christmas gifts will be found at a two-day Crafts Fair in the Student Center at Monterey Peninsula College, according to Kathy Yarnell, Crafts Fair coordinator. The fair will open on Saturday, Dec. 8 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will be continued the following day, Sun., Dec. 9 at the same times. During the fair on Saturday, a Handicapped Students Auction will be taking place. The auction is a joint effort of the Circle K Club and the Handicapped Students of MPC who are trying to raise money to purchase two trams or folf carts in order to help physically limited students get to and from classes. Open to the public.

IN A FEW DAYS, MILLIONS of Americans will bring into their homes a potential fire hazard that can, within seconds, be ignited into an inferno. This hazard is the Christmas Tree, one of the most combustible of holiday decorations, and one which can spread flame rapidly, threatening severe damage or loss of life. A list of suggestions for a safer holiday season includes: Don't depend on flame retardants to make your tree non-combustible. Controversy exists over whether many fire-retardant chemical treatments are of any use at all. Some may, in fact, accelerate the drying process; if your tree has been professionally "flameproofed", test it. Break off a small dry branch and take it to a safe, outdoor location. Place the branch in a verticle position and hold a lighted match so that the flame makes contact with the needles on the lower end of the branch. If the branch ignites beyond the contact area, your tree is not flame proof. Keep the trees fresh. "Fireproofed" or not, all natural trees should be kept as moist as possible. Buy a fresh tree and keep it outdoors until it is needed. Don't purchase a tree with brittle ro shredding needles. Better still, cut your own tree -- just before you're going to put it up in the house. As soon as you get the tree home, cut off the trunk diagonally at least one inch above the original cut. Stand the tree in a container of water and keep it in a cool place. Sprinkle the branches frequently until you bring the tree indoors. In the house, keep the tree in water at all times and remove it from the house before the needles dry out. Your tree should not be kept around after New Year's under any conditions. Keep flame and heat away. Be sure that radiators, heating stoves, radios and televisions are well away. Artificial trees can burn too. If you buy a plastic tree, by one labeled "fire retardant".

Black U.S. Colonel Denied Chile Post

A Black American colonel, who has been a student at the Defense Language Institute in Monterey, was nominated as a military adviser to Chile and then rejected.

The Pentagon said Friday the rejection was made by a U.S. Navy Captain in Chile who never consulted the Chilean government. Officials said Navy Captain R. E. Davis, chief of the U.S. military group in Chile, acted alone in deciding that Col. T. M. Gafford was unsuitable as an advisor to the Chilean army.

The Chilean government denied that it had a role in the decision.

Gafford, attending a Spanish Language school at the Defense Language Institute, was chosen by the staff of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to join the U.S. military group in Chile.

The nomination was forwarded through official channels to the U.S. embassy in Chile, where it was acted on by Davis, who, without consultation, notified Washington that Gafford would not be acceptable in Chile, Pentagon officials said.

The Washington Post, citing what it described as authoritative sources on Capitol Hill and the Pentagon, said that after Gafford was recommended for the post, Gen. William B. Rossen, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Southern Command in Panama, reported to the Pentagon that Chile had turned Gafford down, allagedly because of his race.

Chilean Ambassador Walter Heitman denied the report, characterizing it as a "slander against both the Chilean government and the Chilean people."

He said that prior to the newspaper report, the Chilean government knew nothing about the case.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon said it was trying to determine what, if any, consultations took place before Davis made his recommendation.

The State Department declined comment on the subject, but said former Ambassador Nathaniel Davis, who returned from Chile several weeks ago, had not been consulted on Gafford's appointment.

Renters Can Get Tax Refund

California State Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti reminds senior citizen renters they may be entitled to as much as a $45 refund after the first of the year as a result of a $1.1 billion tax relief measure enacted by the Legislature in 1972.

"Senate Bill 90 is remembered mainly because it gave public schools the greatest one-year support increase in California history and also responded to the demand for homeowners' property tax relief.

"But because the leadership of the Legislature held firm during negotiations with the Administration, it

In NY For Workshop

Lee Tolar, director of the Young Adults For Action, was named by the State of California Department of Corrections, to fly to New York City to participate in a "Conflict Resolution Training" Program.

Mr. Tolar, along with 14 members of the California Department of Corrections staff, will participate a training session directed to conflict resolution skills and their application in a prison setting. The seminar is designed to give participants a working knowledge of negotiating and mediation techniques, fact finding, arbitration and other problem-solving devices to ameliorate and resolve conflict. The seminar will thus support the Team's crisis prevention and intervention efforts, and also create a sensitive pre-intervention conflict resolution capability within institutions.

Specifically, the seminar will cover such areas as the basis of group conflict; conflict in a prison setting -- its symptoms and causes; staff, inmate and community attitudes toward conflict, negotiations and mediatory intervention; negotiating strategy and tactics; intervention criteria; the roles and functions of a mediator, with particular emphasis on the problems and opportunities of a mediator from the system. The principles, techniques and mechanics of mediation; specific mediation techniques -- utilization and timing; the use of mediation panels or other resources.

State Housing Starts Decline

The recent decline in new housing starts in California continued in October with a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 143,000 units, Bank of America economists reported recently.

This compares to the 168,000 rate in September of this year and the 221,000 rate in October of 1972, the bank said.

Treatment Of Senior Citizens Is Blasted

Sam Brown, Administrator of the Del Monte Manor Apartments and Villa Del Monte, blasted the treatment of Senior Citizens, at the regular Tuesday morning meeting of the Seaside Kiwanis Club meeting, at the Fireside Hof Brau, last Tuesday.

"Over and over again," Brown said, "I have heard discussed the plight of the elderly, the poor, the sick, and handicapped, the isolated, the victims of age discrimination. Time and time again, I have heard the tragic stories of neglect and mistreatment, of frustration, misery and fear. Hour after hour, I have listened to the same old refrain: 'The elderly need this, the elderly need that, so we must do something.'"

Mr. Brown asked if it wasn't about time to start doing something. He said: "We know the problems, now we need the solutions."

He clearly pointed out that the problems need no further defining, but action.

"We have placed too much emphasis on the things that are wrong and not enough on how to make them right. We have wasted valuable time fixing blame for past mistakes instead of fixing responsibility for correcting them. And while we redefine the problems of the aging, these problems continue," he said.

He said that everyone knows, or should know, what the elderly need, but there has always been some confusion about what the elderly want.

"Some seem to think that all we have to do is provide such things as reduced bus fares, free movie tickets, discount drugs, and so-called retirement communities. But that is not the answer at all, for older Americans do not want special treatment or special privileges. They do not want handouts in the guise of reduced fares. They do not want to live in retirement communities, some which are little better than 'Geriatric Ghettos'".

He stated the elderly have the right to choose their own lifestyle. That older Americans want to be first class citizens; partners in progress, not wards of the state. They believe "they have earned the right to choose for themselves their own lifestyles, to retain the same options that other citizens enjoy, to reap the benefits of comfort and security which they have tried to provide for others throughout their lives."

"Therefore, our task is to provide the elderly with more options, with greater opportunities to enrich their own lives. And we must undertake this task not to 'help older Americans, but rather to allow them to do for themselves. For therein lies the spirit of purpose, dignity and independence that is woefully lacking in the lives of millions of

Life-Sized Nativity Scene On Display At Northridge Center

Again, Salinas residents are blessed with the spirit of giving.

Northridge Center has the honor of presenting Mrs. Albina Cosco's life size sculptured clay figures of the Nativity scene. During December, the scene will be located in the center of the mall utilizing Northridge's new fountain as the background.

The artist, Albina Casentini Cosco, who began her work over a quarter of a century ago, chose for her theme Christmas and the Feast of the "Prince of Peace". The scene is intended, says Mrs. Cosco, "to bring to the minds of the viewers the renewal of the meaning of the birth of the Prince of Peace for all mankind living in God's creation to strive to live in peace with one another regardless of color or creed." A keen student of the Bible, Mrs. Cosco devotes hours of study before creating her impression of the Christmas story in sculpured clay figures.

Albina has concentrated her ideal on expressing in art form the Nativity. Affiliations with many church and community groups have been and still are the motivations to render service to America. In August, 1967, the Republic of Italy conferred its highest out of country award on Mrs. Cosco for over 50 years of service in many fields.

Buying A Toy Is Not A Game

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has authority to remove hazardous toys and other articles from the market, but the real power to protect children belongs to their parents.

Toy dealers sell some 150,000 different toys throughout the United States. The government has banned about 1,500 in the last two years, but 5,000 new toys are introduced each year and must be tested. Selecting a toy well-suited to their child is a decision parents alone can make.

Parents with questions on toy safety, or who wish to request the "Banned Products List," can call the Consumer Product Safety Commission in Washington D.C. at a toll-free number, 800-638-2666. Californians can also call two regional offices (not toll-free) in Los Angeles, 213-688-7225; and San Francisco, 415-556-1819.

The number of children injured annually in the U.S. is estimated at 700,000, of which 43,000 injuries are serious enough for treatment in hospital emergency rooms.

Eighty percent of the over one billion toys purchased each year are sold during November and December.

Tips to help parents select toys include:

* Choose a toy appropriate for the child's age and development. Many toys are labeled with a recommended age.

* Remember, any toy brought into the home may be accessible to younger children.

* Select chemistry sets and electric toys for older children only. Teach children not to remove or try to fix electrical components. Avoid toys that build up excessive amounts of heat.

* Check labels on fabric products. It is recommended they be "non-flammable," "flame-retardant," or "flame-resistant." Stuffed toys should be "washable" and made of "hygenic material."

* Consider the noise a toy makes. Even cap pistols fired too close to a child's ear can cause damage.

* Instructions should be easy to read and understand.

* Toys for small children should be too large to swallow and not have small parts that could be detached and ledged in windpipe, ears or nostrils.

* Check for sharp edges or points. Make sure item will not break easily into small pieces or leave jagged edges. Avoid glass and brittle plastic.

* Watch for moving parts, triggers, gears, etc., that can pinch or catch fingers, hair, or clothing.

Renters .....

also provided assistance to renters for the first time ever.

"To get the refund, you first must be a 'qualified' renter and then you have to claim the credit by filing a 1973 State income tax return -- even if you would not ordinarily make out a return," Moretti said.

The Los Angeles County Democrat explained a renter must have been a California resident on March 1, 1973, and the premises must have been his principal place of residence. Mobile home tenants qualify if they rented the land, he said.

The amount of the tax credit is based on Adjusted Gross Income. For example, the qualified person whose income is under $5,000 gets the minimum $25 credit and the renter whose AGI exceeds $8,000 is entitled to the maximum $45 credit.

Moretti expalined that only one credit is allowed to a husband and wife unless each maintained separate residences the entire year. Someone who was a resident on March 1, but for only part of the year, can take 1/12th credit for each month of residence.

An individual cannot qualify if:

* He lives with someone who claims him as a dependent;

* He or his spouse receives the homeowners' exemption;

* He rents property that is exempt from property taxes (unless taxes are paid on a possessory interest); or

* He or his spouse received public assistance grants which include an allowance for housing (1/12th credit can be taken for each full month grants were not received).

Speaker Moretti advised persons with questions regarding their eligibility to contact the nearest office of the State of California Franchise Tax Board.

older Americans today.

"Any program which attempts to recognize and deal with the problems of older Americans must, in my view, contain the following proposals:

"A. Development of an equitable effective, adequate system of income maintenance for older Americans.

"B. An end to the cruel upward spiral of inflation which is destroying the economic security of millions of older Americans, particularly those living on limited, or fixed incomes.

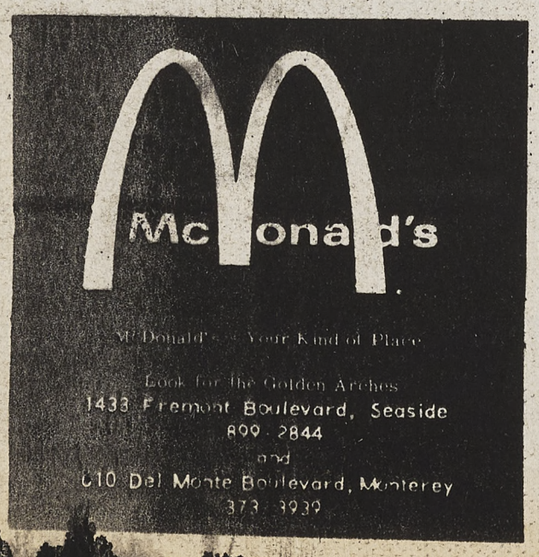

"C. Relief from the burden of increasing property taxation. A burden which is forcing older Americans out of their homes and creating divisive community conflicts over the cost of education and other public services.

"D. Construction of more housing for the elderly, recognizing their special needs for comfort, mobility and safety, and allowing them maximum freedom to choose their own surroundings.

"E. Strong request and support for a national and local health plan which will provide comprehensive, quality health care to all Americans, regardless of age or the ability to pay.

"F. Creation of a comprehensive transportation system which recognizes the barriers to mobility that many older Americans, particularly the physical impaired, must face.

"G. Development of a policy through which a person's opportunity for employment, gainful or voluntary, is limited only by his ability and desire, not by his age. These are only some of the priorities for action to meet the need of older Americans. But all of these porposals will be meaningless unless they are accompanied by a significant change in attitudes toward the elderly, and an end to the belief that ability dedication and compassion can be measured in terms of age, and a realization that the wisdom, experience and desire of millions of our older citizens constitutes a truly valuable resource for America," he said.

Dear Better Business Bureau,
This is to inform you that I have received a check in the amount of $48.28 as full refund for the order in question. Thank you very much.
Your prompt and efficient response to my complaint was, indeed, gratifying. It greatly bolstered my confidence in the American way of doing business, but also taught me to check with the Better Business Bureau before transacting future business deals with unknown companies.
Yours for a better and prosperous America.

ADVERTISING COUNCIL

Your Mayor Reports

by Joe Dolan

CITY ELECTION REFORM ORDINANCE

As a result of "Watergate", Congress is proposing various election safeguard laws. The necessity for grassroot actions is also needed to assure and maintain confidence in your local elected officials. The city of Chula Vista, Calif., has already acted and that city council is hereby commended!

With the growing concern over the impact campaign contributors have on elections, the city of Chula Vista has responded by enactment of an election campaign contribution and expenditure control ordinance. On August 7, 1973, the city council adopted an ordinance designed to restrict the "highest bidder" approach to securing election success. The ordinance futher exacts accountability as to use of campaign funds as to the nature of expenditures and the source of contributions.

The first requirement of the ordinance is that each candidate and committee shall appoint a campaign treasurer to keep a true record of all contributions and expenditures. The treasurer shall also prepare the campaign statements for the candidate or committee. Furthermore, all contributions to a candidate or committee must be reported promptly to the campaign treasurer, who must announce them within seven days.

The ordinance requires that each candidate and committee shall file a campaign statement of cumulative totals of all contributions and expenditures, and the full names and addresses of all contributors. Each campaign statement shall be verified under oath by the campaign treasurer and the candidate. Two copies of each campaign statement are required to be filed with the city clerk. No fee is required for such filing. A candidate is not required to file a campaign statement if contributions or expenditures do not exceed $200. However, a candidate shall file a written declaration under oath with the city clerk attesting to that fact. Campaign statements are to be open for public inspection and reproduction during regular city business hours at the Public Library and the city clerk's office. Every campaign statement must be kept on file by the clerk for a minimum of six years.

The ordinance is very clear in stating that no campaign contribution shall be made by any person using any other than his legal name. No person other than a candidate shall make, and no campaign treasurer shall solicit or accept, any contribution which exceeds $250. No candidate shall make any contribution that will cause the total amount contributed by him for a single election to exceed $1,250. No corporation or business entity shall pay or contribute anything of value for the purpose of influencing an election. Total anonymous contributions to a candidate or committee shall not exceed $50 for a single election. Contributions by city contractors are forbidden by the ordinance.

One of the most crucial aspects of this ordinance is the limitation of campaign expenditures. It provides that no candidate or committee shall incur aggregate campaign expenses in excess of the following amounts multiplied by the number of registered voters in the city:

INCUMBENT OFFICEHOLDERS: For Mayor, Ten Cents ($0.10); For City Councilmen, Ten Cents ($0.10).

NON-INCUMBENT OFFICESEEKERS: For Mayor, Twelve Cents ($0.12); For City Councilmen, Twelve Cents ($0.12).

FOR or AGAINST MEASURES: Twelve Cents ($0.12).

Campaign expenditures uncontrolled by the candidate or committee shall not exceed $250 in any single election. Each campaign treasurer is to maintain detailed and complete records of all expenditures incurred. Advertising rates, service fees, and charges in all newspapers and magazines to any candidate or committee shall not exceed the rates normally charged. Also, at some time during the fourteen days preceding any election, the city's franchise cable television company shall provide, at no charge, a period of not more than two hours during prime time viewing, an open forum to all candidates and committees to air their views. Finally, all communication medias which accept expenditures from a candidate, committee, or campaign treasurer shall submit, under oath to the city clerk, a statement listing the amounts paid and obligations incurred by each candidate, committee, or Treasurer, both before and after the election.

The ordinance creates a Fair Election Committee comprised of seven members, selected from the Board of Ethics of the city of Chula Vista, with the primary responsibility and duty of enforcing the provisions of this ordinance. This Fair Election Committee shall hear and investigate complaints and, upon the evidence of a violation of the ordinance, shall institute such legal action as they deem necessary.

Any violator of the ordinance is guilty of a misdemeanor. Failure to report contributions is punishable by a fine of not less than one-half the amount of the violation, or $500, whichever is less.

An ordinance incorporating all of the above requirements has been prepared for introduction by the Seaside City Council on Thursday, December 6, 1973. Seaside's Municipal election is to be held on March 5, 1974. Every candidate for public office should wholeheartedly endorse the safeguard measures of this proposed ordinance.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:

What, I wonder, must go on in an American mind when one hears of the oil-squeeze being put on our nation? Nay, more, when we learn that in some form almost the same tightening-of-the-knot is done on several west-European lands, and on Japan?

"Unless you change your policy of fairness, decency and sympathy with a democratic land out our way, we will tighten the noose far more tighter around your necks," say a group of Middle-East lands still living in the stone-age, as far as liberty and peacefulness is concerned. Most of the people there are poor, uneducated, deprived of many rights, while a minority of cunning rascals enjoy every luxury their barbaric hearts crave.

How many times have we read in our free press words of hate and threats of war by the semi-barbarians in power over these middle-eastern lands? They engage in the old shell-game, of corrupt and cruel rulers throughout the ages, of keeping the minds of their subjects occupied hating another land so that they will not go after their own rascals mis-ruling them! Who is so deceived that he does not know -- as an American -- that these war-crazy countries attacked without warning little, peace-desiring, liberty-dedicated Israel? That they would have gotten the beating of their lives from Israel, had not the United Nations stepped in? Even though their friend Russia aided them with military hardware? Unless Soviet armed forces came in to do most of the fighting?

What are we to think when we hear France is kissing the feet of these despotic oil lands of the Middle-East, hoping to get favored treatment? That England and Japan are more and more taking sides with them against the only democracy in the Middle-East?

Our State Department has already begun to speak out, that we will not submit to the blackmail of oil cut-offs threats. It's time for it to take the initiative to urge our western allies and Japan -- the lands of democracy -- to unitedly speak up: "WE WILL NOT CHANGE OUR FOREIGN POLICIES TO YOUR WISHES, OIL LANDS! If you cut down or cut off on your oil trade with us, we will collectively cut your lands off from all trade, aid, and any cooperation whatsoever! Nay, more, we will collectively not stand for you continuing aggressive war on another land! Two can play at the game of cutting off trade. And we will put forward a crash program to find alternate energies so as to be forever independent of your treacherous oil!"

When will the mighty democratic lands, unitedly get off their knees and stand tall? Stop giving in to the threats of "no oil"? Refuse to let tryannical lands manipulate their foreign policies to suit aggressive Middle-East war-makers? Tell their rulers: "Stop being ferocious, act civilized."

Sincerely yours,
Geroge Herman

Why do Christian concepts endure?

The qualities expressed by Jesus have influenced men through the ages. Though frequently trampled upon, these gentle attributes emerge unharmed.

What is their remarkable strength?

When you're met with another's forgiveness, meekness, and unselfed love, why is it that your own bitterness fades?

There is a book which explores the penetrating effect on men's lives of these simple expressions of good. It speaks of the timeless spiritual laws which underlie these Christian qualities.

The book is Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

Buying Fire Wood

With winter coming on and the price of firewood expected to be higher than normal because of the energy crisis, it is more important than ever for both buyers and sellers of wood to get and to give full value, according to Daniel R. Smith, Sealer of Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs for Monterey County.

Mr. Smith said his office receives and investigates a number of complaints each year regarding shortages on wood sales, and some of them result in restitution made for short measure.

"Most of our cases involve misunderstandings by both buyers and sellers, of what measurement and what volume constitutes a cord of wood," Mr. Smith said. "There is a legal definition contained in the California Business and Professions Code, which we enforce.

"It requires that wood be sold by the standard measure for wood, which is the cord. A cord contains 128 cubic feet, and the wood must be tightly stowed. The most popular dimension of a cord is four feet by four feet by eight feet.

"Persons selling fireplace wood should acquaint themselves with these Code requirements," Mr. Smith said.

Mr. Smith also said that deliveries of wood in excess of one-eighth cord must be accompanied by a bill or voucher certifying to the amount of wood sold, the name and address of the seller, and the date of sale. "With wood quote in some areas as high as $70 a cord, it makes good sense for the customer to be certain that he is getting full measure for his money," Mr. Smith said.

Lange explained that recent state legislation requires that, by July 1, 1974, teachers in every school in which 25 percent or more of the students are members of racial and ethnic minority groups must be given training in dealing effectively with those students. The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District is using its Martin Luther King Inservice Day on January 15 to provide such training.

All of the district's 1,600 employees will meet at Seaside High School on January 15 to hear speakers and take part in workshops regarding the history, culture and current problems of minorities. Lang said a number of community organizations have been contacted to help the school district provide the training. Interested persons may contact him at 649-7441.

Teachers Say Schools Should Have Priority During Crisis

The California Teachers Association (CTA) said recently it will seek to have schools included among agencies receiving "highest priority" for fuel and energy supplies in the event of cutbacks or rationing.

Bryan Stevens CTA president, said that position was adopted by CTA's 475-member, policy-making State Council of Education at a meeting in Los Angeles.

"CTA calls on President Nixon, Gov. Reagan and all federal and state lawmakers to include schools, along with health and safety agencies, for the highest priority of energy use," Stevens said. "We urge that any programs designed to alleviate the energy shortage include the protection of health and safety of pupils and the educational environment. This means that schools be kept open and warm and that we keep the buses running to avoid absenteeism."

The CTA president deplored the fact that proposals have been made to close schools, cut back on transportation, field trips and other activities, such as athletics and driver training, as a means of alerting the public to the intensity of the crisis.

"Such so-called solutions have a negative impact on the total educational program, impair health and safety of pupils and are not in the public interest," Stevens declared.

Stevens said CTA is urging teachers to assist state and national energy conservation efforts by pointing out to students the nature of the crisis and how they and their families can help through personal alertness and sacrifices to conserve energy.

"We are also asking that when national, state and local agencies consider programs to combat the energy crisis teacher representatives be included so they can give warnings on potential disruptions of classroom programs," Stevens said.

Stevens reported that the Council instructed him to write President Nixon requesting that oil companies be stopped from exporting oil and this fuel be allocated for educational needs on a first priority basis in the U.S.

CTA members were urged to write California Republican Congressmen and ask them to use their influence to dissuade President Nixon from vetoing any educational appropriations for fiscal '74. In addition, the Congressmen will be asked to pledge they will override any veto.

The Council eulogized Dr. Marcus Foster, Oakland superintendent slain by unknown assassins on Nov. 6, as "...a truly respected friend and colleague /who/ epitomized those professional goals and ideals to which the California Teachers Association is so strongly dedicated." The session was dedicated in honor of Dr. Foster, and the "sincerest sympathy be expressed to the dearly beloved family of our friend."

Hydrogen May Be Fuel Of Future

An almost limitless supply of fuel -- odorless, tasteless, and as safe as gasoline or natural gas -- exists all around us. It is practically pollution-free, for when it is burned, it produces only energy and water vapor. Unlike electricity, it can be stored. And no nation or region has a monopoly on it.

It's hydrogen, a basic component of water and the lightest and most abundant of all elements, declares James H. Winchester in the December issue of Reader's Digest.

Scientists now are seeking ways to make it an economically practical fuel for everyday applications in the home, in industry, and for transportation, reports Winchester. No scientific breakthroughs are needed to change water into hydrogen. What is required for its large-scale use as a fuel is a wide-scale production.

Hydrogen is increasingly in use, the article reports. It is carried without problems in some industrial pipelines in the U.S and Germany, while in the Chicago area more than 11 tons of liquid hydrogen is brought in daily in tank trucks and railroad cars that have been insulated to hold the minus 423 degree F. liquid. Over 80 billion cubic feet of hydrogen will be used this year in America in the manufacture of petroleum products, glass, metals, chemicals, textiles, and drugs.

Possibly hydrogen's best known application has been in the U.S. space program, where it is the fuel that first boosted man to the Moon.

Burners in home gas appliances can be converted reasonably and quickly, so that hydrogen can fuel cooking, heating and cooling units. It could also replace the fossil fuels that now move electric generators. Even more efficiently, it could be used to power fuel cells, which were perfected for supplying electricity for spacecraft in flight -- and which can be built large enough to fuel a neighborhood or small enough for in-home use.

Auto engines can also be modified to run on hydrogen. And because of its lightness, it's especially suited for powering jet airplane engines.

In America we presently use one third of the world's energy and (despite any forthcoming efforts to reduce consumption) it is estimated that as this century nears its end, that figure will double.

Hydorgen is not an answer to our pressing immediate needs but for relief from the drain on available supplies of energy, the Digest says, it "offers more than a glimmer of hope as the big payoff."

Frustrations Of A Black Actress

Judy Pace sits upright in a director's chair on the set of "The Slams," attentive and eager. A passing train drowns out the commotion of movie production activity going inside the Lincoln Heights Jail, but she seems unaware of the locomotive. She absorbs the activity around her and smiles slightly.

"I love the fuss and activity of people working. When I first broke into films I used to go onto sets to watch, picking up the mechanics of working in front of a camera. Even if I weren't working, I'd stay around until the close of a day's shooting. I was learning then, but I find myself experiencing the same excitement now," explains beautiful Judy Pace, who co-stars in MGM's "The Slams" with Jim Brown and Frank de Kova.

"I've worked a lot for the few years I've been in this business but I realize that Black women have not been given the luxury of picking and choosing parts yet. There really isn't that much out there for Black women." She closes her eyes and clasps her hands together as if in meditation and gathers her thoughts.

"The kind of roles I would really like to play have not been written. If they've been written I haven't read them yet. In most scripts, the Black woman is the last item and there is generally only one per picture. There are more roles for Black men than women and I'm not begrudging them the opportunity, but I do wish women were given the same selectivity. Like, I would love to play situation or musical comedy. I wish they had more of that for Black women. Comedy to me is the hardest thing in the world to do and I love it.

"Like the role of Iris in 'The Slams.' This is the first time I've had the challenge of playing a character with more than one or two levels. She has a lot going for her. She's educated and she knows how to survive in both worlds, Black and White. I kind of like her."

Judy plays the part of Jim Brown's woman, independent enough to have a career of her own, yet vulnerable enough to risk her life for the man she loves in a spectacular prison break. Directed by Jonathan Kaplan and produced by Gene Corman, "The Slams" is an action drama which follows the exploits of a prisoner and his fight against the penal system. The screenplay was written by Richard L. Adams.

Judy has recently taken on a new role as a mother. "My little girl's name is Shawn but we call her Pie. Do you think she'll hate us for than when she is older? She is a little Aquarius, and I love her so much." Judy is married to Don Mitchell, a regular on the "Ironside" series.

As Judy is called before the cameras for a particularly demanding dramatic scene with Jim Brown, the determined actress leaves the definite impression that she will soon be playing comedy and a wide variety of other roles.

a BOOK that can CHANGE your whole life
Is GOD real to you?
Can you trust HIM?
Is HE near to you?
The Bible tells us we can turn to God for help, for health, for protection. Yet some think these Bible promises are empty. They don't have to be. Today there is a book that is helping many people tune in to the truth of God's nearness, His power and fatherliness. That book is Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures.
At a low point of poverty, hopeless illness and loneliness, its author, Mary Baker Eddy, saw that God can be trusted and loved. She found that God heals the sick when we love and understand Him. A deep student of the Bible, she discovered a Science based on living the Christianity Jesus taught. She won her freedom from poverty and disease and from her loneliness. Then she wrote down what she learned for the whole world.
By reading and studying this powerful book along with the Bible, men and women throughout the world have found that God can and will help them. These people have solved housing problems, gained opportunities for better education. They've won freedom from poverty, overcome racism. They've discovered what it really means to be the children of God.
